

CHILDREN ARE UNANIMOUS FOR IMPROVED PLAYGROUND AND SWIMMING POOL.

They Want it for Their Moral, Mental, Physical and Social Welfare as the Coming Citizens.

The Compiler soon found out where Gettysburg's young Americans stood on the question of an improved playground. They are unanimous they are of one mind. They want all they can get out of the playground. Sixty-eight short essays on the advantages of the playground were offered in competition for the Compiler prize of $1 each for the three best. It was no easy job for the party sitting in judgment to read and pass upon them. The entire sixty-eight were exceptional in being in good penmanship and easy to read, the children showing the excellent training received along these lines. Neatness marked all of them.

Not a single child knocked the idea in the slightest way. They were all enthusiastic in stamping their approval on the playground. There is no question that if the parents and citizenship of this town do not do their part now they are going to stand condemned in the eyes of the children. Many tell of the great enjoyment the playground has already given.

One disposes of the backyard as a playground without comradeship with comment as to the parental comment not "to step off the cement walk and spoil the lawn." All condemn the streets as a playground with their dust and autos, and perils of disease and accidents. It sounded like satire to have one lambast the street of to-day as "the place where a child builds the foundation of his future."

Had we space we would like to print the entire sixty-eight. The prizes are awarded to No. 66 and No. 18, printed below, and to No. 4, being the third one printed in our last issue.

The Advantages of a Playground. No. 66.

The playground is going to be one of the greatest factors in American life in the future. The people of the future will have to have good sound minds and bodies in order to make good citizens. To secure such citizens, the boys and girls must be trained from the day they enter the public schools till the day they leave. Much of the training will have to take place on a playground under a competent instructor. The present system of athletics, which trains only a few, will have to give place to one that will train all.

The advantages to be derived from a playground are numerous. Many people of to-day commit suicide because of ill health. If people are started on the road to health and happiness when they are young, they will be less likely to leave it when they grow older. It is said that the pupils of the schools trained on the football and baseball fields make good officers than those that shine in their classes, but take no athletic training. A law compelling all pupils to take an hour exercise every day, would help to make successful men for the future. The ancient Greeks took pride in developing beautiful bodies. If these people attained a higher average education than any modern nation, America ought to be able to do the same by the same methods.

Gettysburg already possesses a very good playground but only a few people can see its great possibilities. If the playground were developed and made attractive, the town would have a perpetual source of health and happiness, a better training ground for good citizenship than anything else they could provide. An up-to-date playground would be a real fountain of youth to Gettysburg.

The Advantages of a Playground. No. 18.

The advantages of an attractive playground to any community are numerous. It strengthens the people morally, mentally, physically and socially, and it helps to make them better citizens.

It strengthens the people morally because, if the playground is attractive, they will go to the playground for their pleasure and recreation instead of staying on the streets or going to pool-rooms where bad habits are developed.

Then, if all the boys and girls of the town would go to the playground and take advantage of the numerous athletic sports and other games, it will be a great benefit to them physically, and, in these games, the children are compelled to think rapidly and to judge what is best to do next. This strengthens the children mentally and helps to develop their mind.

At the playground, many people gather and everyone is brought into close contact with one another by which the people are developed socially and soon learn to know more about human nature and, if they ever wish to take hold of a problem in which many people are concerned, this will be a great help to them.

A playground is a place which furnishes pleasure for mother, father, son, and daughter and, instead of the son being at a pool-room and the daughter at a dance, and the mother and father at different places, they will all be at one place where they can see and enjoy one another's pleasures and therefore have more in common.

All these things tend toward good citizenship and what does one wish more than to be a good citizen and aid the community in which you live? Then if a playground does all this, is it not the most advantageous thing a community can have?

The Advantages of a Playground. No. 20.

In 1914, a playground was donated to Gettysburg. This has, in the past five years, proved itself to be of great benefit to people of the town. It is so well equipped that the children may gain both amusement and physical culture.

Children spend many happy hours there, in wholesome amusement, dancing about the May-pole or swinging. The sliding-board and see-saws are always occupied by the younger children. Another good point is that when the little children are at the playground, under the care of an older brother or sister, their mothers know that they are not running on the streets where they can learn so many things unfit for their young minds.

Now for the school boys and girls, also, those working in the factories, there are good ways for enjoying themselves. When they want a little fresh air and some exercise, they may play a game of tennis or basketball. This brings them in closer contact with each other and a larger circle of friendship is begun. The High School boys have their team, and they are often seen practicing after school. Again, they can meet with other teams, from away, on their home field. Now for testing their strength, there are two sets of swinging chains. Swinging on these chains is a good exercise for all, helping to develop the muscles of the arms and back. One small girl of ten years passed back and forth across the chains fourteen times. This was due to a great deal of practice; but during the summer months she almost lived there.

Not only the younger folks but also the parents enjoy the playground. Several families will pack lunches and spend a holiday in the open. Nothing pleases children more than to have their parents participate in their games.

During the last two summers, the soldiers made good use of the playground. Being hot and dusty after marching and drilling all day, they would enjoy a good shower bath, which rested and refreshed them, making them better prepared for the next day's work. They seemed to take such an interest in the amusements that several nights a week were set aside for the soldiers, excluding all civilians on those nights.

During the past five years the children of Gettysburg have had a clean and decent place where they may find wholesome enjoyment developing their minds in such a way that they will always seek good amusement; and developing their bodies so that they will become strong men and women.

The Advantages of a Playground. No. 48.

First, what is the meaning of a public playground? Is it a place in which only a few of the public-spirited citizens are interested? Is it a place that should be forgotten and neglected? Is it a place seldom visited by the children, because of the lack of proper equipment? Or is it a place in which all the citizens are interested? A place that is not forgotten and neglected, but which is maintained and supported by the citizens of the town. A place to which the children go to spend a few hours in good, wholesome exercise.

Either description signifies the interest shown by the citizens. A playground, in any community, is just exactly what that community makes it. If the people are interested and give their support, the playground will be a success. If the people are not interested and do not give their support, the playground will be a failure.

Some people will argue that a public playground is needed only in large cities, where the children have only the sidewalks upon which to play. This method of playing exposes them to many dangers, on account of the excessive traffic.

It is true that the large cities should have public playgrounds for the children, but the smaller places have need for the playground for other reasons equally important.

A public playground, that is in excellent running order, will afford amusements that will be beneficial to the mind. The playground should also have equipment that will provide healthful exercise for the boys and the girls. Exercises that develop the muscles of the body and give them a chance to build up strong, healthy bodies. Healthy bodies are the birthright of every boy and girl.

This and much more may be obtained for the young. It will also help to raise the moral standard of the community, by keeping the body and the mind employed with healthful, profitable pastime during idle moments. Idle moments are very numerous in the lives of boys and girls and they do not always know how to use them.

All these advantages and many more we may have if the playground is kept in excellent running order.

COLLINS' NEW TRIAL MOTION

ARGUED BEFORE THE COURT ON THURSDAY, APRIL 10.

The One Question is that of Jurisdiction of Court, Because Crime Was Committed in Border Zone.

President Judge D. P. McPherson and Associate Judges W. Howard Dicks and E. P. Miller held court on Thursday morning, April 10, at which some current business was disposed of.

The important matter before the court was the hearing of the argument of motion for new trial of Clarence R. Collins, convicted of murder in the first degree at the January court. Hon. George J. Benner and John D. Keith, Esqs., spoke in behalf of the prisoner, and District Attorney Raymond F. Topper and J. Donald Swope, Esq., for the Commonwealth. The motions did not involve any new points of law, but the one of the jurisdiction of the court raised at the trial, because the crime was committed in Cumberland county but within the statutory zone created by Act of Assembly, which act counsel for Collins argued was unconstitutional. The argument was concluded before noon and largely covered the ground raised at the trial. There are no Pennsylvania decisions as to the questions. In the western States there have been various decisions as to statutes when a crime is committed when traveling and in a border zone. The Commonwealth contended that the new method of traveling by autos and the coming method of flying required that the Acts of Assembly providing for crimes committed in a border zone or while traveling should be held to be constitutional so as to safeguard society from crimes arising from new conditions. Decision of the Court was reserved.

The Court filed an opinion in the case stated of Caroline Noel vs. Clayton W. Renoll, to test the marketability of title. Henry Noel by will gave all his real and personal estate to his wife for her own use and after death all the property remaining shall be sold and the proceeds divided among all his children. The Court quoting a number of decisions held that the language of this will gave Caroline Noel a fee simple title and that she could convey the same to the purchaser, the defendant.

Lucertia Conover, executor of will of David A. Conover, having paid to the Citizens' Trust Company of Gettysburg the residuary estate of decedent of about $6,000 as the successor in the trust, the estate of David A. Conover was discharged. The bond of the Trust Company in $12,000 was approved.

The Citizens' Trust Company was appointed guardian of Helen C. Barnitz, a minor child of Minnie C. Barnitz, late of New Oxford and bond of Trust Co. in $200 was approved.

The Citizens' Trust Company of Gettysburg as guardian of Helen C. Barnitz was authorized to make a private sale of certain real estate to U. L. Gladfelter and bond in $300 was approved.

On petition of James H. Barnitz, executor of Emma Barnitz Swartz, late of New Oxford, for the appointment of appraisers to appraise and set aside unto James O. Swartz, the surviving spouse, $5000, a citation was awarded returnable April 28, 1919.

The Citizens' Trust Company of Gettysburg was appointed guardian of Viola May Shuyler, minor child of Geo. A. Herring, deceased, of Hamilton township, the minor having an interest in $10,000 of government life insurance. Bond in $4000 was ordered.

Charles W. Culp, Jr., resigned as constable of the Third Ward.

On petition of Speese & Pfeiffer, a rule was awarded on Amanda Baiterman, executrix of David F. Baiterman, late of Butler township, to file an account and rule was made returnable April 28, 1919.

Widow's list under the $500 law in estates of John A. Rockwell, late of Hamilton township, Chandler Blocher, late of Menallen township, and Jesse W. Snyder, late of Mt. Joy township, were confirmed absolute.

D. A. R. Prize Essay.

The subject for the prize essay awarded to the pupils of the High School by the Gettysburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was "How We Became Indebted to France." The judges were Prof. John A. Himes, Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars and Dr. A. E. Wagner, and the first award was to Emma Kadel, second to Lorene Roth, with honorable mention to Elsie Tawney and Sarah Kirssin.

Winter's Parkway to be Kept Up.

Residents of Broadway have formed a committee for the purpose of keeping the parkway on that street in proper condition and to care for the lawn and ornamental shrubbery that make Broadway the street beautiful. At a recent meeting of the committee C. E. Stable was chosen treasurer and J. D. Swope chairman of the committee on street improvement.

Victory Loan Luncheon.

A luncheon was given the various branches of the Adams County Victory Loan organization on Monday evening, April 7, at 6:30 at the Eagle Hotel. The banquet room was decorated with United States, French and British flags. John M. Mason and E. McClain Watters represented the Treasury Department in the Third Federal Reserve Banking District. About one hundred fifty guests, men and women, were present.

Mr. Watters spoke first and for the men at the head of the Third Federal Reserve District extended an appreciation of the work of Adams county in the Liberty Loan campaigns and in their behalf extended thanks and congratulations and wishes for all possible success in the final victory drive. The speaker said he looked for the greatest over-subscription we have ever had and that Adams county will do her share.

During the drive a War Exhibition Train will come to Gettysburg and be here about five hours, a one man tank and armored car will run up and down the streets of Gettysburg and there will be other exhibitions every one will want to see. A huge dirigible now at the Naval Reserve Camp at Cape May will also visit Adams county.

Mr. Mason thrilled his audience with his appeal that the loan must be put over from patriotic motives and that the loan was going to have the widest distribution of any of the previous ones because the Victory Liberty Loan representing the victory of the American democratic principles in the world war would appeal to eyes, heads and hearts of the American people.

Dr. Wm. A. Granville closed the banquet with a speech appealing for the Adams county organization to devote time and efforts to the success of the drive.

Overcome on Way to Fire.

William H. Sharetts, of Stevens street, while hurrying up town when the fire alarm was sounded last Monday evening, was overcome by an attack of acute indigestion which affected his heart and caused him to fall unconscious to the pavement. He was carried to the residence of F. Mark Bream where a physician was called and was later removed to his home. Although his condition for a time was very serious he is now recovering satisfactorily.

W. M. Storage House Burns.

Fire on last Monday evening completely destroyed the storage house of the Phila. & Reading R. R. Co. standing near the old location of the round house in the north-western part of the town. The blaze had gained great headway before it was seen and the building was so far from a water plug that the company could do nothing to save it and it burned to the ground. In the structure there burned a quantity of oils and other highly inflammable materials and the conflagration made a light which could be seen for many miles. Some implements were also burned. The building was erected some years ago to replace a round-house which was destroyed.

Street Pavement Plans.

The Town Council of Gettysburg on Monday evening directed two ordinances to be drawn up covering the street paving proposition. One ordinance will provide for the paving by borough of that portion of street not built by the State Highway Commissioner from the McGuigan corner on Chambersburg street to Fourth street on York street, that two-thirds of the cost falling on the borough be assessed on the abutting property owners. It is estimated that the 4000 feet to be built, the cost to the borough will be $10,000 and to the abutting property owner $2.20 for each 220 feet. In the Centre Square it is provided that the first 12 feet next to Circle be made by the borough, the next 18 by the State and balance near curb, two-thirds to be paid by the abutting property owners.

The second ordinance to be drawn will require all pipes to be laid in the streets proposed for pavement before the work on the streets is started and in accordance with the State Highway Commissioner.

GOOD SORGHUM SEED IS MOST DESIRABLE

Practice of Selecting Heads Often Neglected by Growers.

Benefits to Be Derived From Selection and Proper Curing Are Not Appreciated—Germination Tests Should Be Made.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Corn growers, or at least a fair percentage of them, select their own seed and in many cases preserve it through the winter in the ear. Unfortunately the practice of selecting heads of sorghum for planting the next year's crop is not nearly so general as it should be among sorghum growers. The benefits to be derived from seed selection and the proper curing of the seed by hanging the selected heads up on wires in the barn loft or seed-house, where they will be protected from the weather and can dry out thoroughly, are not appreciated.

If selected seed heads have been preserved in this way now is the time to thresh these heads, sack the seed and label it carefully, so that it will be ready for planting in May. Seed kept in this way will give a more even stand and the farmer will have a personal knowledge of its purity and adaptability to his conditions. Germination tests should be procured in every case to assure the farmer as to the amount of seed he must use to obtain the desired stand.

JOIN IN GRASSHOPPER FIGHT

Crop Valued at $400,000 in Five North Dakota Counties Saved by Farm Bureau.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Farm bureaus of five counties of North Dakota, by fighting grasshoppers last year, saved crops valued at $400,000. Slope county alone saved $80,000 worth of crops at a cost of $5,000.

It was seen that nothing short of an organized fight would stop the pests, so the county commissioners of the different counties were appealed to for funds with which to purchase poison and other materials. The money was voted from the general fund of the counties and the farmers were furnished with poisoned bran. The county money made it possible to purchase the materials in quantities and at much lower prices. The farmers soon saw that the poisoned bran, when properly used, was doing the work and the county agents were kept busy tracing shipments of bran, molasses and arsenic.

Farmers, many of whom would have been forced to give up their farms if this fight had failed, have expressed appreciation for the assistance given them by the county agents, and the counties and the county commissioners are said to feel that the money was well spent.

Gently Massage Skin Back and Forth to Loosen Grain and Force It Into Gizzard.

When fowls are "crop-bound," the crop becomes packed with food which has ceased to pass on into the gizzard as it should normally do. If the contents of the crop consist of grain only, the crop should be manipulated with the hands, gently massaging the skin back and forth to loosen the grain and work it into the gizzard where it can be ground up.

GRAIN NOT BALANCED RATION

Contains Too Much Carbohydrate and Not Enough Protein—Gives Some Meat Scrap.

Grain does not make a balanced ration for hens or even young fowls. It contains excess carbohydrates and fat and not enough protein to make a balance. For this reason, a feed rich in protein such as meat meal, meat scrap or cottonseed meal should be fed with the grain.

POULTRY RAISING ON FARM

Fowls Have Become as Important in General Plan as Live Stock or Any Other Branch.

Poultry raising on the farm is no longer "little things." The time has come when poultry are as important in the general plan of farming as live stock, crops or any other division of farm work. There are greater possibilities in poultry raising now since poultry products are high.

FISH THAT KNOWS NO FEAR

Killer Whale Easily Holds Title of Most Ferocious of the Animals of the Deep.

The killer whale is one of the most deadly animals that swim in the sea. Killers are found in almost every ocean of the world, but, because of the nature of their food, they use as feeding grounds the sounds and bays along the coast, rather than the open sea. They are ferocious pursuers, constantly destroying more than they eat.

"Killers apparently will eat anything that swims," says Roy C. Andrews, of the American museum, who has been studying whales for some time. "Fish, birds, seals, walrus and other whales are all its prey. Its capacity is almost unbelievable. There is a record of thirteen porpoise and fourteen seals being taken from the stomach of a 21-foot specimen." The capacity of the killer has given rise to a number of fantastic tales, one of which tells of a killer being seen with a seal under each flipper, a third under its dorsal fin and a fourth in its mouth. In pursuing, the killer bellows in a terrifying manner.

Killers are the only whales that feed upon their own kind. They sometimes go in company by dozens and set upon a young whale, baiting him like so many bulldogs. Some will lay hold of his tail, while others bite at his head and thrash him until the animal dies. So great is the strength of the killer that a single one, by fastening its teeth into the body of a dead whale being towed by several whaling boats, can carry it to the bottom in an instant. They know no fear and in parties they will attack the largest whale.

Not even a ship, or a number of ships can daunt the ferocious killer, who frequently, through its boldness, help whaling parties by terrifying their mutual prey into nonresistance.—From an American Museum of Natural History Bulletin.

MANY PERSONS 'SOUND BLIND'

Peculiar Affliction That It Is Now Asserted Is Not Uncommon Among Mankind.

Color blindness is by no means an uncommon complaint, for many people, although they may possess perfect eyesight for reading or seeing long distances, are quite unable to distinguish between green and red and many other pairs of colors. Lately it has been found that some suffer from an exactly similar affection of the hearing power—that is, an inability to distinguish particular shades of sound. A school teacher reports a boy who could not distinguish at all between the sounds of "very," "perry" and "Polly," and yet he could hear at as great a distance as anybody. Another youngster would spell "different," "drifent." He said that was how it sounded to him. Several others run the letters "r," "n" and "i" together in a hopeless way, being unable to tell one from the other.

Robert Louis Stevenson's Prayer.

Robert Louis Stevenson's last prayer tells us how all great men live by faith of the life immortal. Assembling his servants, at the end of the day, in his house in Samoa, he prayed: "Behold us with favor, O God, of many families and nations gathered together in the peace of this room. Weak men and women, subsisting under the covert of thy patience, be patient still. Suffer us yet a while longer, with our broken purposes of good, with our idle evil, with our evil, Bless to us our extraordinary mercies: if the day come when these must be taken, brace us to play the man under affliction. Cut us up with morning faces and with morning hearts, eager to labor, eager to be happy, if happiness shall be our portion, and, if the day be marked for sorrow, strong to endure."—From a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Giotti.

Vincenzo Giotti was a native of Bologna, born about 1780. He became a scholar of Dionysius Calveate at the time that Guido Bent studied under that master. At twenty years of age he went to Rome in company with Guido, and there painted some pictures. He was then invited to the court of Naples, where he passed the remainder of his life. Giotti possessed so ready an invention, and such surprising facility, that Orlando states, from a list of his works, found after his death, that he had painted no fewer than 218 pictures for public positions in the different towns of the kingdom of Naples. He died at Reggio in 1836.

Study the Words of Songs.

In their efforts to secure good diet—by taking lessons from a high-priced coach—singers often overlook the benefit which may be secured by reading, with careful attention, the texts of the songs they are to sing.

It is manifest that a singer who cannot give an intelligent reading of a poem cannot give an intelligent interpretation of that poem in singing. The value of each word, each phrase and their relations to each other, and to the whole thought, are legitimate objects for thorough study. Especially is this true of the pause which is so valuable in speech or in the reading of a poem.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

SPRAY FOR INSECT CONTROL

Combination Treatment Can Be Made for the San Jose Scale and Apple Aphids.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Orchardists who have the San Jose and other scale insects to contend with should arrange to spray their trees with proper insecticides before the foliage puts out in the spring. The prospects of continued remunerative prices for fruits should be an incentive to give orchards all needed care to maintain them in productive and vigorous condition.

Commercial lime sulphur concentrate is the principal insecticide used for San Jose scale spraying. It is usually sold in a density of 33 degrees on the Baume scale, and when of this strength should be used at the rate of one gallon to from seven to nine gallons of water. In spraying for San Jose scale very thorough work is essential, since only the insects actually hit with the spray are destroyed. The spray pump used should develop good pressure to insure thorough work.

During recent years many apple growers have adopted the so-called "delayed dormant" method of spraying. Briefly, this consists in deferring the San Jose scale treatment until the tips of the buds of the apple are showing green. By adding to the lime-sulphur solution 40 per cent nicotine sulphate at the rate of 1 part to 800 or 900 parts of water an effective combination treatment can be made for the San Jose scale and apple aphids which congregate on the opening buds.

Necessary insecticides should be obtained or contracted for, so that nothing will interfere with carrying out an effective spray program.

ARSENATE OF LIME IS GOOD

Satisfactory Substitute for Arsenate of Lead, Present Cost of Which Is High.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Experiments thus far made by the bureau of entomology, United States department of agriculture, indicate that arsenate of lime may be used in all situations where paris green has been employed, and that for some fruits (apple, pear, quince) it will often be a satisfactory substitute for arsenate of lead, the present cost of which is much above normal, when used with lime or fungicides containing lime.

DIGGING OUT TREE BORERS

Work Should Be Done Regularly in Spring and Fall—Use Knife or Suitable Tool.

The most effective method of reducing injury to fruit trees by certain borers, as the peach and apple tree borers, is to "worm" the trees regularly in the spring and fall of each year. Previous to worming, the earth should be removed from around the crown of the tree to a depth of four or five inches and the trunk brushed or scraped free of bark and loose dirt. Remove the borers by means of a knife, stiff wire or other suitable tool.

AMPLE RANGE IN VARIETIES

Plan Should Be to Have Supply in Fresh State During Big Part of Year and for Canning.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A sufficient range in variety of fruits can be produced in home orchards throughout a large portion of the country to provide a supply in the fresh state for the table during a large part of the year and for canning and otherwise conserving for use as desired.

TOO MANY NEGLECTED TREES

Twenty-Five or Thirty Apple and Plum Trees Will Furnish Sufficient Family Supply.

A farm orchard of 25 or 30 apple and plum trees, well cared for, will furnish all the fruit the ordinary farm family can use. Why plant 100 or more and never take care of them? Many of our farms have too many neglected fruit trees. Cut out some and take care of those that remain.

Three McSherrystown Fires.

The barn of Conrad Brothers at the rear of the butcher shop in McSherrystown was completely destroyed by fire early Saturday morning. When discovered the fire had made such headway that it was impossible to save the building. Two horses in the stable were burned to death. A quantity of hay, straw and feed was also consumed. The delivery wagon and a buggy were saved. This fire is the third disastrous one to occur in that vicinity in a period of a month; the Middleburg fire, in which the large factory of S. L. Johns was destroyed, occurring last week, and the barn at St. Joseph's Academy having burned not long ago. And also, strangely, no cause for any of the three fires can be determined.

An auto thief attempted to steal the machine of Charles Stick, a farmer residing near New Oxford, in Hamilton township, which was standing in Hanover Saturday evening. As he started the car and headed down the street a figure arose from the back seat and grabbed the thief about the neck. The thief leaped from the machine and darted into an alley while the car ran into the machine of Jacob Spangler, of Broadway. A man who had come to town with Mr. Stick was sitting in the machine waiting for the party to return and leave for home. He fell asleep and was awakened by the motion of the car, then realized that the man in the driver's seat was a stranger.

Where Huns Were Inferior.

There is a noteworthy example of the preservation of valuable military secrets in the interesting article written by the secretary of the British Geographic society entitled "German War Maps and Surveys." British methods of survey and mapmaking were far superior to the enemy's, and one conspicuous success was scored in the scientific development of sound ranging for artillery. They used a self-recording apparatus, an ingenious and delicate piece of mechanism, which was used during the battle of Arras in April, 1917. The idea upon which it was based must have been known to a great many persons, both soldiers and civilians, but it never reached the enemy, though how much he desired to obtain it was revealed by Ludendorff's issue of an order in which he insisted upon the importance of capturing a set of these instruments. Until practically the end of the war German sound ranging was done with stop watches, a hopelessly crude and inaccurate arrangement in comparison with the scientific British system.—In Washington Star.

Happening to have an exceptionally good box of sweets I gave him a piece, whereupon he returned the second time that day and inquired: "Have you got any more of that good candy?" Statements That May be Investigated. Testimony of Gettysburg Citizens.

When a Gettysburg citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Dean's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Gettysburg resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Geo. E. Stover, 147 Hanover St., says: "About a year ago I had trouble with my back and kidneys. There was stiffness and a bearing-down ache just over my hips. My kidneys acted too often after the slightest cold. I heard of Dean's Kidney Pills and got some at the Peoples Drug Store. Dean's quickly gave me fine relief. I haven't had to use any kidney medicine since and I believe the results are permanent."

CIACA KILLS FRUIT TREES

As Precautionary Measures Defer Planting, Postpone Budding and Do No Pruning.

The year 1919 is likely to be one of the worst "locust years" on record. Entomologists of the United States department of agriculture see nothing alarming in the prospect.

The periodical cicada, the real name of the insect commonly called "locust," will appear this year in the following states: Alabama, District of Columbia, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The injury done by the periodical cicada consists almost wholly in chiseling grooves in the branches of trees for depositing eggs. This injury all ways appears to be greater than it actually is. Popular alarm is usually out of proportion to general damage.

Young fruit trees are sometimes killed by the cicada. The precautionary measures are: Defer putting out young fruit trees till next year; postpone budding operations; do no pruning this spring.

When the insects begin coming out head pick them from young fruit trees.

Empty, Pupal Shells of Periodical Cicada Clinging to Leaves of Tree.

As spray them with pyrethrum powder, kerosene emulsions, or a solution of carbolic acid or acetic acid. Later, when the insects are ready to begin laying, spray young fruit trees with whitewash.

USE JUDGMENT IN SPRAYING

Many Failures Attributed to Neglect to Follow Simple and Easily Understood Hints.

In spraying one must use very good judgment both in applying and in knowing when to apply and in using a solution of the proper strength to be effective. A great many complaints about spraying not being beneficial almost invariably be traced back to a failure to follow a few simple and easily understood directions. Several of such cases have come under my own observation during recent years.

Spraying should always be looked upon as a preventive more than as an absolute remedy for insects and scale and in time some of these pests and diseases will completely disappear where spraying has been faithfully and carefully done.

The fruit is more delicious, larger, smoother and of a much nicer appearance, thereby enhancing the market value of such.

SPRAY IS CHEAP INSURANCE

Value of Crop So Greatly Increased That Amount of Investment Is Comparatively Small.

Although spraying is one of the most expensive of orchard operations, the value of the crop is so greatly increased thereby that it is a comparatively small investment, the expense amounting to only a fraction of the returns directly due to the practice. Orchard spraying is, in fact, an exceedingly cheap form of insurance.

MAKE A STUDY OF SPRAYING

It is Most Likely to Be Slighted or Neglected—Grower Should Know All Details.

Of all orchard work, spraying is most likely to be slighted or even neglected. It is important, therefore, that every fruit grower make a study of the why and wherefore of spraying and have an intimate knowledge of spraying materials and machinery.

ART DEVELOPED AS NEEDED

Makers of Cabinets Fitted Themselves to Demands of Increasingly Enlightened Generations.

Cabinet making, as all arts, began with the human needs of people. War and the necessity for hastily moving from place to place during the semi-civilized periods gave place to the making of homes and the effort to furnish them comfortably—one of the strongest impulses in nature and the surest sign of civilization.

The old chests in which they kept their belongings were at last allowed to remain stationary and were used as seats. The name of these chests in England was "cabinets," and the maker of them was called a "cabinet maker." As soon as might be, the cabinet maker provided the old chests with backs and they became settees, while others were raised on legs and became cabinets, or, being provided with doors and drawers, became cupboards or "chests of drawers." Tables and beds were also devised, together with wainscoting for entire walls, and people really began to live.

The workmen who made these things were capable of designing and executing an entire department with its furniture. Great skill was required, and notables and royalty prized themselves on having some artist-artisan to do their bidding. In the establishment of these men different degrees of skill were recognized, and the system of apprenticeship obtained. A youth entering one of these studio workshops, having passed all the grades, became a "master." To attain this degree was to be worthy of the respect of the world.

ART WORKS IN ANY LENGTH

Method of Getting Things Done Quickly Is Not by Any Means an Idea to Be Called New.

Hurry is not characteristic of the present century alone; our ancestors were not always immune from the habit. The Dutch artist Vanderstraeten was a master in scheming out short cuts and saving time.

Vanderstraeten had little difficulty, it is said, in painting in a day 30 landscapes the size of an ordinary sheet of drawing paper. He would surround himself with pots of paint, each of which had its particular purpose—one for the clouds, one for the grass, one for the shadows. When he was ready to begin painting he called his assistant, "Boy, a cloud!" and the lad speedily brought the desired pot.

Vanderstraeten, with a thick brush, quickly transferred the clouds to the canvas. With the finishing strokes he called, "There, are the clouds; bring the grass!" And so it went, without a moment's waste of time, until the 30 landscapes were finished.

On occasions Vanderstraeten would paint in the manner described a landscape upon a long piece of canvas. In filling the orders of customers he would cut the strip into pieces of various lengths. A purchaser could buy two, three or four feet of landscape, according to his fancy or according to the size of the space he wished to decorate.

Pugilism in 1725.

Jack Broughton, the father of pugilism, fought his first fight over 183 years ago; to be exact, it was on July 9, 1725. He was engaged in many rough-and-tumble fights with other lads, but at that time he knew nothing of boxing, which was just being introduced by James Figg. While attending a fair Broughton was attracted by a boxing booth kept by Figg and was much incensed by the foul tactics used by a big man in boxing a much smaller one. He remonstrated with the big bruiser and an altercation ensued which had reached the stage of fist-cuffs when Figg interfered and invited the two men to the stage to settle their differences. Young Broughton, after ten desperate rounds, completely triumphed over his older, bigger and more experienced opponent. That was Broughton's introduction to the ring. After Figg's death he became champion and by formulating a code of rules to govern the game he became entitled to rank as the founder of modern pugilism.

Stories of Remarkable Power.

Lovers of the occult will be interested in a story told by Lady Blunt in her remarkable volume of reminiscences.

Her husband was sick unto death in Constantinople, and the Turkish government loaned her two small stones which had been in his possession since the conquest, telling her to apply them where the pain was most severe.

Lady Blunt used them as directed with the result that the sick man speedily recovered, although four doctors had previously decided on an immediate operation.

"These wonderful stones," says Lady Blunt, "were found at rare intervals in the veins of a doctor's neck; perhaps only one stone in a million doctors."

Anger's Poison.

Biologists have proved, by laboratory tests, that anger is a poison in the blood; that a person who loses his temper is actually self-poisoned. Take a few drops of blood from a man in a violent rage, they tell us; drop them on the tongue of a guinea pig, and it will probably make the little beast sick. Yet we hear people brag, "I gave him a good going over," "I got good and mad," as if one bragged of deliberately contracting a dangerous case of blood poisoning.

FIVE COUNTIES IN LOAN RALLY

Northeast Pennsylvania Prepares For a Good Gateway.

To complete the organization for the Victory Liberty Loan drive, committee chairmen from the five counties comprising Group C, of the Third Federal Reserve district, Lackawanna, Wayne, Monroe, Pike and Susquehanna, held a luncheon meeting at the Scranton club. Speakers from Philadelphia outlined plans for conducting the drive.

More than fifty loan leaders attended. C. S. Weston, of Scranton, presided.

Addresses were made by R. H. Ludlow, of Philadelphia, chairman of the speakers' bureau, and George E. Lloyd, of Carlisle. The speakers explained how the drive will be conducted, and urged committeemen to begin the work of organization early.

THINK VICTORY LOAN IS EASY

Adams County Leaders Confident of a Speedy "Going-Over."

Confidence that the Victory Liberty Loan will go over easily in Adams county was expressed by loan leaders at a meeting in Hotel Gettysburg.

Dr. William A. Granville, chairman of the Adams county Loan Committee, presided. He reported that his whole organization of workers in the Fourth Liberty Loan is intact for the campaign in the Fifth Loan.

Grier Hersh, advisory chairman of Group F of the Victory Loan organization and chairman of the York county Victory Loan Committee, delivered an address, in which he outlined the general plan of campaign in the counties comprising Group F, and offered suggestions of value to loan workers. Other speakers were John Kieth and Secretary Sunday, of the Adams county Victory Loan organization.

BUCKS' LEADERS START DRIVE

Victory Loan Workers Given Hearty Greeting at Somerton.

Lower Bucks county has a complete speakers' organization for the Victory Liberty Loan campaign. Some of the speakers have already been at work. J. H. Buckman and James E. Groome addressed the Philadelphia Driving Club at Somerton. The audience numbered 200 and gave the loan arguments a hearty reception.

A meeting of all speakers will be held at Langhorne to formulate a plan of campaign. The speakers include Charles M. Eames, Yardley; J. Hibbs Buckman, Langhorne; Hon. Clarence J. Buckman, Langhorne; Howard I. James, Horace N. Davis, Hugh B. Eastburn, Thomas Scott, and Joseph R. Grundy, county chairman, of Bristol; Father J. V. Sweeney, Newtown; Thomas B. Stockham, Morrisville; Arthur P. Townsend, Langhorne, and James E. Groome, Yardley.

"BUTT-IN" TO BEAT HECKLERS

Victory Loan Speakers Will get the Jump on Critics.

"Butt-in" speaking will be used to create enthusiasm for the Victory Liberty Loan, and 1000 speakers are being organized for the campaign which is opening in the southeastern district of Pennsylvania, severing Bucks, Montgomery, Delaware, Chester and Philadelphia counties. Other districts are expected to adopt the "butt-in" plan and get the jump on would-be hecklers.

These speakers will present themselves at all meetings and will discuss the loan situation in a constructive way to dispel all criticism, hostility and heckling which might result when the selling drive opens if the public were not acquainted with facts in advance.

The speaking campaign was outlined at a meeting of county representatives in the Union League, Philadelphia, presided over by Arthur Peek, chairman of Group A, which includes the southeastern counties.

Harold R. Beiler, who will direct the speaking activities in this district, declared that an appeal must be made to the sense of decency of the American citizen to step up and pay the bills incurred. The nation, he said, needs a good reputation to figure as a respected member of the family of nations—a position which it cannot hold if it does anything toward repudiating honest debt.

DEDICATION DAY IN DELAWARE

Religious Ceremony Will Open Victory Loan Campaign.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Delaware will prepare for the opening of the Victory Liberty Loan campaign with a "Dedication Day." April 6 was selected as the day at a meeting of Delaware loan leaders in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Governor Townsend will be asked to issue a special proclamation naming "Dedication Day" and the pastors of all churches will be urged to feature the Victory Loan at one or more services on that day. A suitable Biblical text will be suggested for the uniform introduction of the loan theme into the pulpit discourses.

The plan of opening the loan campaign with a religious ceremony was suggested by J. Hall Anderson, of Kent county. Men and women loan leaders who attended the meeting expressed confidence in the ability of Delaware's organization to make the drive a complete success. Howard S. Kinney, of the Advisory Committee for Delaware, presided. Addresses were made by John H. Mason, Director of the Loan; Gilbert E. Gable, Director of Publicity; Benjamin H. Lindlow, speakers' chairman, and Mrs. Henry Ridgely, women's chairman, of Delaware.

LIVE STOCK BEST TO MAINTAIN FERTILITY

Pastures Should Be Looked Upon as Permanent Investment.

No Better System of Farming Than Grazing With Beef Cattle or Sheep—Use Lime, Phosphates and Stable Manure.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Fertilizing pastures should be looked upon as a permanent investment, in a class with fences and buildings, rather than a reason for expecting full pay and a profit the season they are applied. No system of farming maintains fertility once in a soil as does grazing with beef cattle or sheep. There are many pastures in the blue grass region which have been grazed continuously for from 50 to 100 years and to all appearances are better than ever now.

Lime, phosphates, and stable manure are the materials which give the best and most lasting benefits. They are also the cheapest of fertilizing substances. A liberal use of these at the start is advisable rather than small applications at frequent intervals. The same may be said of reseeded. Scatter a little seed among weeds and brush is usually a waste of time and money. The results obtained are not at all comparable to those where a seed bed with fertilization has been prepared before seeding.

PRODUCING HIGH-CLASS MEAT

Cattle, Hogs and Sheep Have Been Mated and Selected to Make Cuts Tender and Juicy.

Meat making animals—beef cattle, hogs and sheep—have been selected and mated so as to increase the production of high-class cuts; to make more tender and juicy meat, with a better intermingling of fat and lean, and with a lesser percentage of waste. The breeds of dairy cattle have been improved by selecting those producing the highest yields of milk and butter fat, and draft horse progress is estimated by the ability to produce animals capable of moving unusually heavy loads. Consequently, if a breeding animal is able to impress upon its offspring the ability to make more meat or milk, or to generate more power than it was possible for the unimproved part of the ancestry to do, then that breeding animal has demonstrated his worth.

GETTING MOST FROM SHEEP

Ewes Bred at Time When They Have Green, Succulent Stuff Are in Prime Condition.

The period of gestation of a ewe averages about 150 days, so that when breeding for lambs to come in February or March it is possible to secure a mating season while there is still some green pasture. Ewes bred at a time when they have green, succulent stuff are well conditioned and are more likely to have from two to three lambs apiece than ewes which are bred while in thin flesh or fed on an all-dry ration. Underfed ewes or ewes in thin flesh when bred usually have one, sometimes two, lambs apiece, and such lambs are generally weak and scraggly and are hard to raise.

SELECTION OF A GOOD BOAR

Pick a Strong Animal of Best Bone, Vigorous and Well Hammed—Raise Quality of Feeders.

In selecting a boar, get a good strong hog of good proportions, best of bone, vigorous, well hammed, of masculine appearance, good head and ear and a round rib, and in this way you raise the quality of easy feeders that is worth much to the man who is making pork hogs his business.

EXERCISE NEEDED BY SOWS

If Not Given Sufficient Amount Pigs Are Likely to Be Weak—Also Liable to Chill.

If the sows do not have sufficient exercise, their pigs, when farrowed, are very likely to be weak and not able to kick strongly and squeal loud enough to make their mother get up when she lies on them. Also the pigs are much more likely to chill at this critical time if they are weak.

CHANGES WROUGHT BY WAR

Many Things Have Been Brought to Pass That Would Shock Old-time Observers.

Quite a number of things have happened during or in consequence of the war which never happened before. No British king had ever passed under Napoleon's Arc de Triomphe until King George's recent visit to Paris. No British army had before helped to defend France against an invader. British and Prussian troops had never previously tried conclusions. Never before the war had armies from India, America, Canada, Australia, New Zealand or South Africa landed in Europe. Until Mr. Wilson, no "reigning" president of the United States had crossed the Atlantic during his term of office, though ex-presidents have done so.

Jerusalem, Damascus and Bagdad had never before been captured by modern European armies, nor had British soldiers ever previously marched through Mesopotamia. The British flag is the first standard of a Christian nation to float over Constantinople as that of a conqueror since the taking of the city by the Turks over four centuries ago. No king of Prussia had ever lost his throne or been driven into exile before; and no war had ever brought misfortune on so many rulers or led to so many new states being set up.

GOODBY TO FATHER WINTER

No Doubt That Spring Is Here, With All the Joyousness That the Season Should Bring.

The harbingers of spring are numerous, though often obscure. It does not take many warmish days at this time of the year to make the heart of animate nature, including man, to throb with hope. We have been filled with forebodings. All of our mild December we said that the autumn was lingering long this year. In equally mild January we prognosticated that we would "get it" in February. We are still a little fearful that old Father Winter may have some ice and snow for us in his storehouse and so we try not to be too forward looking.

But a complete plan of the garden drawn to a scale, with every radish and bean and cabbage located is not rushing the season, and it is a mighty pleasant thing to make out these days. Stewart Edward White says he always gets out his book of files in February, furnishes up the old ones and replaces the missing favorites, and dreams, the while, of pools and rapids. The housekeeper sighs at the sight of grimy wall paper and then hopefully begins to houseclean the spare room. A few hopeful robins came back this week, as well as some blackbirds. They say the skunk cabbages are blooming along Big Darby's rocky shore. Spring is on the way!—Ohio State Journal.

STRONG SENSE OF HONESTY

Of Course It Was That, and No Other Reason, Which Caused Volunteer's Action.

Loton Horton, the milk magnate, was talking about the terrific New York milk strike.

"Oh, well," he said, apropos of an opponent's honesty—"oh, well, we're all honest when it pays to be. We're all more or less like the volunteer."

"The volunteer?" said the reporter.

"It's a story," Mr. Horton explained. "A movie actress, the prettiest movie actress in Los Angeles, was conducting a recruiting campaign at a bazaar, and she guaranteed to kiss every young man who would volunteer to fight for Uncle Sam."

"Well, there were lots of volunteers, of course, and the actress permitted each of them to kiss her, and they did so, while the crowd laughed and applauded, in a polite, gentlemanly manner."

"But one volunteer seemed to lose his head. He threw his arms about the lovely actress and kissed her with such abandon that she was almost suffocated, and had to push him away. Yes, she pushed him away, her eyes blazing, but he stalked off to the recruiting office without a word of apology."

"An hour later the fellow dashed into the hall again, seized the actress once more in his arms, and pressed his lips to hers in a kiss more passionate than before. Again she pushed him off."

"You fresh chump," she hissed, "what do you mean? You had your kiss an hour ago!"

"But the recruiting office turned me down," he said, "and so, like an honest man, I had to give it back to you, didn't I?"

DRANK TOAST TO WILHELM

Field Marshal Hindenburg and Army Staff Observed the Birthday of the Former Kaiser.

From a report of the Cassel Allgemeine Zeitung, as cited in the Vossische Zeitung, it appears that, despite all denials, the ex-kaiser's birthday was celebrated at the Germany army headquarters. The journal says that Marshal von Hindenburg referred to the ex-kaiser as follows:

"Even people of different views would consider it cowardice and disloyalty if we should hesitate to admit frankly that we are thinking today with love, gratitude, reverence and great sorrow of the kaiser, to whom we have hitherto devoted our lives and our actions, and for whom we were ever ready to stake our blood and our treasure for the welfare of the fatherland. May God bless him and give him strength to bear the heavy burden which God's inscrutable will has placed upon him. Let us drink a silent toast to his health with this sincere wish from our loyal hearts."

Think This Over

The investment of Funds and care of these investments are always difficult problems for the average individual.

Why not create a trust which can provide for the payment of income to you during life and designate the disposition of property after your death. Or which may be so drawn that in case of need through illness or unexpected misfortune the principal may be drawn on for that purpose.

In this way the aged are relieved of the care and investment of funds, which is always a difficult matter for persons who are not physically strong.

The laws of Pennsylvania guard well funds placed in the hands of Trust Companies of the state.

THE CITIZEN'S TRUST COMPANY OF GETTYSBURG stands ready to assume these cares and responsibilities for you.

Call and talk it over with the Trust officer.

Willys-Overland

Owners Are Better Guides than Specifications

Nothing our salesmen can say about the Willys-Knight motor car can be as convincing as the statements of Willys-Knight owners. The man who had driven a Willys-Knight car thousands of miles becomes so enthusiastic over the sleeve-valve motor that he is rarely ever content until he prevails upon his friends to profit by his experience. The Willys-Knight sleeve-valve motor is so ungrudging and unflagging in its performance that it has come to be known as the motor that always runs. The staunch allegiance of Willys-Knight owners has given rise to the expression—"Once a Willys-Knight owner always a Willys-Knight owner."

HELD PASTORATE IN OHIO

Old Church Records Tell of the Work of President Wilson's Maternal Grandfather.

The coming of Thomas Woodrow Wilson, to Ohio to preach, is noted briefly in the records of the Chillicothe presbytery. At a meeting held at Bloomingburg September 12, 1837, "Thomas Woodrow, a member of the Congregational Union of England," requested to be received. His case was referred to a committee. At the next meeting of the presbytery, held at Ripley in 1838, he was accepted and immediately received a call from the church at Chillicothe, which, being accepted, he was installed the first Friday in November of that year.

The next entry of interest in the history referring to Rev. Mr. Woodrow is in the records of the presbytery held in Red Oak in 1847, to the effect that because of feeble health he had resigned his pastorate with the church at Chillicothe and the relation was dissolved. He died at his home near Columbus in April, 1877.

It was his grandfather's church and his old home in Carlisle, Eng., that President Wilson visited the first Sunday he was in England last December. He was born at Paisley, Scotland, in 1791, educated at Glasgow university, did missionary work in the Orkneys, settled as the pastor of the Independent church of Carlisle, came to America in 1835, locating first at Brockville, Can. It was from that place that he went to Chillicothe.

PRETTY TRIBUTE TO YANKS

Welsh Girl Enthusiastic Over the Good Qualities of the Boys
Fighting in France.

Testimony to the qualities of some of the American troops in France is given by a girl member of the woman's auxiliary army corps in a letter to her home folk at Cardiff, Wales. She says:

"We are stationed inside an American camp in a huge old French cavalry barracks. We are doing clerical work with hundreds and hundreds of Americans in the Central Records office. We deal with the whole American army records and, excepting the cooks, waitresses, etc., all we odd 400 girls are really the 'Waacs' of the American expeditionary force.

"We love the work, we love the camp and the boys look after us well. They are splendid fellows. We have comfortable rooms, a recreation room and hockey and are as happy as possible. And now we are getting up a grand revue called 'The Battle of Bourges.' I am to be a French girl. The chorus is one of the best and the music truly American. I'm afraid your music over there when we come back won't have enough 'pep' in it. Honestly, the boys can play. Even those who are doing scavenger work in the camp can play the violin and piano."

PLAYED JOKE ON THE HUNS

Sioux Indians Had Fun for Three Days
Talking Over a Tapped
Telephone Wire.

Because of the nature of the country over which American troops fought in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, the Germans found it easy at times to cut in on our field telephone wires.

The commander of one brigade of artillery attached to an American division was particularly annoyed by enemy wire tappers in a heavily wooded section of the Argonne. Code messages from artillery observers were being intercepted by Boche listeners-in, and the commander knew, as all armies know, that no code is impregnable when experts get working on it.

The artillery commander took up with the colonel of one of the line regiments the question of the Huns' wire-tapping activities. And the colonel hit upon an idea.

Two Indians, both of proud Sioux lineage, members of one of his companies, were assigned as telephone operators. One was to go forward with the artillery observer, the other to remain at the brigade receiving end of the wire which the artillery commander was certain the Germans had that day tapped somewhere along the line.

Now, when two Sioux Indians get talking together in their own tongue, what they say sounds very much like code, but isn't. Anyway, it raised hob with the code experts of certain Prussian guard units.

The Sioux stuck on their jobs for three days and nights. They and the artillery commander and their own colonel enjoyed the situation immensely. If the Germans got any fun out of it they kept it to themselves.—Stars and Stripes.

OLD LONDON BELL FOUNDRIES

Relics of Many of Them Are Still to Be Found Scattered Through the British Capital.

In the days before clocks, to say nothing of watches, were common the bells of London occupied a much more important position than they do today. Prentices depended on this bell and that to call them very unwillingly to work of a morning and release them very willingly from work of an evening, whilst bells were requisitioned for all manner of special purposes. And so there were many bell foundries in the city. Relics of them are found in many places, even if it is only a street name, such as Blitter street, which, as Mr. Landfear Lucas points out, was undoubtedly Bell-sitters or Founders' lane. Then Beisize probably owes its name, he declares, to a bell foundry on the lower part of Hampstead hill. Something of this sort is all that remains of many of them, but others, like the Whitechapel Bell foundry, which has been charged with retuning and rebanging the bells of Westminster abbey for the peace rejoicings, have continued to do business through the centuries. The foundry commenced business in 1570.

THEY DOWNED TWELVE HUN PLANES

Lieut. O. P. Johnson of Des Moines, Ia., and Lieut. O. A. Raiston of Lincoln, Neb., two of Uncle Sam's fighting aviators, have returned to their native land after many experiences in France. Lieutenant Johnson is officially credited with downing five Hun planes and his pal gets seven to his credit.

Tanks Like a Deck of Cards.

In the open stretch, beyond the last fringe of wood, we struck the field where the American tanks attacked the Huns on flank and rear and finished the battle of Argonne wood, Elizabeth Frazer writes in the Saturday Evening Post. Later we saw a complete outfit of these grotesque monsters go galloping across a shell-torn field. Their insignia were the characters on a deck of cards, and they always followed suit. Thus an ace of spades was always followed by the king of spades, the king by his spouse; and so on down to the tray. As we passed, the knave of hearts thrust forth a grinning face from his round armored turret and waved a grimy paw. Close on his tail was a grizzly tangoed the ten spot. It was like some mad scene in "Alice in Wonderland."

Grim Jest Pathetic.

Was Poe's tale "The Masque of the Red Death" prophetic? His story was that on the stroke of midnight a tall, red-gowned figure revealed itself amid revelers as Death by Plague.

A counterpart from real life is reported from Cowestry, Wales. It is the report of a masquerade ball, at which one of the masked celebrators simulated Death, in a black robe and with hollow eye-sockets.

There were 140 dancers at the ball. Of this number, 122 are now suffering from influenza. Twelve are already dead, including the death masker.

Italy's Exports.

Italian motor car exports showed a falling off for the first six months of 1918, compared with the corresponding period of the two preceding years. From January 1 to June 30, 1918, a total of 2,356 lorries and touring cars were exported, having a value of approximately $1,400,000, compared with 4,148 vehicles in 1917 and 2,731 in 1916. The number of touring cars exported during the first six months of 1918 was 728, this constituting a record, for the figures of the two preceding years were 244 and 560, respectively.

It's True in Terre Haute.

The other day a primary teacher in the Terre Haute schools was teaching her youngsters about animals. She had told them about domestic animals and then gave examples of the cow and the pig. Then she turned to the children. "Can't some little boy name some wild animals?" she asked.

John could. He rose with alacrity, "Ghosts and Indians!" he shouted.

Good Pipes From Paper Material.

"Pertinax," one of the most important of substitutes for metal, is a compressed paper material, which has been used in place of lead and copper for pipes for gas, oil and other purposes. From a British war trade report, it appears that these pipes can endure three or four times as great a pressure as lead, while their weight is only one-eighth as great, and they are watertight, insoluble and unaffected by temperatures up to about 200 degrees Centigrade. The tensile strength of the material is 14,000 pounds per square inch, nearly equaling that of the best stamped, sawed-out and drilled, and as an electric insulator approaches porcelain in effectiveness.
